Forbes' Theatre.—Lord Byron says, with great truth, that truth is strange, stranger than fiction; for althoug we were prepared for something out of the common way when Mr. Fortes made an engagement with the Risley party, we confess—as Hamlet says—astonishment was the predominant feeling, when last week we witnessed their truly graceful and wooderful performances. Mr. Risley and his party have travelled nearly the circuit of the globe, gaining laurals and gold from the highest dignitaries in the world. In the great San Felice in Rome, the highest officers of the Vatican net only thought it a duty but a pleasure to give their add and countenance to these graceful artists. Mr. Risley has been decorated by the present Emperor of Russia with the grand cross of the second highest order in the empire; at Oresden, Venna, Berlin, St. Petersburg, Mosoov, Florence, Genoa, Milan, Venice, Naples, Rome, Paris, Lyons, Marseilles—in fact, our limits will not allow us to follow these artists in the detail their merits deserve. Their performance is wonderful—most wonderful; and one feat, one feat only, of Monsieur Divani, in absolutely tying himself in a knot and drinking a glass of water, has certainly upset all our preconceived notions of the physiology of the human system. We were favored by Mr. Rissey with a signt of his book of autographs, which embraces the names of the proudest and greatest in the world. We have just been informed that Mr. Forbes has succeeded in engaging this party for twe nights longer.—Providence Daily Post.
